

Name:

Reading

Making Inferences

Wa-ter nightmare!

Peter was woken up by a strange sound. "What could that be?" he asked, looking around the room.

All of a sudden, a drop of water dripped on his nose! It was followed by another, then another!

He went to investigate where the water was coming from. He'd forgotten to turn off the taps off in the bathroom. The bath had overflowed.

Read the story and answer the questions.

1. Peter is forgetful. How do you know this?
 - a. He forgot to turn the bath taps off.
 - b. He forgot to turn the bath taps on hot.
2. Peter was asleep. How do you know this?
 - a. The overflowing water woke him up.
 - b. The dripping water woke him up.

3. Peter was going to have a bath? How do you know this?
 - a. He filled the tub with water.
 - b. He had turn on the shower.

4. What can you infer from the title?
 - a. The story is about water and the nightmare it causes.

 - b. The story is about Peter causing a flood.