Well-being

- 1 My company : how staff feel about the organization they work for as opposed to the people they work with
 - 2 : how staff feel about the pressures of work and the balance between their work and home duties
 - 3 : how much companies are thought by their staff to contribute to the local community and society
 - 4 : to what extent staff feel they are stretched and challenged by their job
 - 5 : how staff feel towards their immediate boss
 - 6 : how employees feel about the head of the company and its senior managers
 - 7 : how staff feel about their immediate colleagues
 - 8 : how happy the workforce is with their pay and benefits
- b Which three criteria do you think are the most important when judging a company you are thinking of working for?
- c Now look at the photos and read about Skyscanner, a travel comparison website, one of the top-rated companies in last year's survey. Does it sound like a company you would like to work for? Why (not)?

Who are they?

AS A KEEN SKIER who regularly escaped to the slopes, maths graduate Gareth Williams became frustrated with the tedious process of searching through a multitude of airline and travel-agency websites to find the cheapest flights. So he and two university friends set about creating a single website that could collect, collate, and compare prices for every commercial flight in the world. Launched in Edinburgh in 2001, Skyscanner, which also provides instant online comparisons for hotels and car hire, gets more than 60 million visitors a month and now operates worldwide – it also has offices in Singapore, Beijing, Miami, and Barcelona. No organization offers as many opportunities to learn and grow as this one does, say its employees. Skyscanner perks include a paid day off to do a social activity, and home-country working, where people who aren't native to the UK can spend up to three weeks a year working in their country of origin. As the staff represent more than 35 different nationalities, this is a particularly popular benefit.

Skyscanner statistics:

Male / female ratio	70:30
Average age	32
Earning £35,000+	36%

- d 13 Listen to an interview with Lisa Imlach, who works for Skyscanner. What is her position in the company? How positive is she about the company and her job on a scale of 1–5 (5 = very positive)? What makes you think so?
