....., we don't remember most of the presents we receive because we get so many, especially at Christmas. There's so much pressure to buy everyone a present. So last year, my family tried something different- we would be matched with one person at the beginning of the year and we would only buy presents for that person. And we weren't allowed to send cards. I wasn't sure how I felt about that because,, I like getting birthday cards, but, I think they are a waste of money.

..... I have a big family, I hardly ever see some of them, so I was a bit worried about who I would get. It was my aunt Monica. I wasn't too pleased, because she always gives bad presents to everyone and is usually very critical about what she receives., to my surprise, she didn't complain about any of my presents.

....., most people were pleased with their presents.

....., reducing present-giving was a very positive experience and we're doing it again this year!
