Index

Data Structure

List

a type of sequential data structure made up of an ordered collection of smaller data types.

a way of accessing or identifying elements in an array or list

A collection of related data stored in an organized manner.