

Different kinds of communities

Tammie's community is Meadowbrook and it is in Kingston. Kingston is a city so it is an urban community. There are no shops, markets or supermarkets in Tammie's community. We can also call Meadowcroft a residential community. It is a group of houses where people live but they don't work there as well.

Joudy-Ann's community is in St Elizabeth and it is not in a town. It is in a country area so we call it a rural community.

In Joudy-Ann's community many people live and work on farms.
We can also call it a farming community.

Gordon's community is near to the sea.
Some of the men work there as fishermen while the women are fish vendors. They sell fish to people on the beach.

Gordon lives in a fishing community.
Some of the people who live there work outside the fishing community. They do other jobs like building, domestic help, teaching, preaching and office work.

Now you know about the communities of these three children.

- Are their communities like yours in any way?
