An urban community is sometimes called a city or town. There are many people who live together in close spaces. People live in apartments and houses. There are also buildings for businesses, such as skyscrapers, stores, and factories. Most people do not have backyards, but they can visit parks to see wildlife and play in green spaces. People can use buses, taxis, cars, and subways to go places. People might also walk to many places.

A rural community is sometimes called the country. There are fewer homes, and they can be very spread out. People usually live in houses in this area. Rural communities include farmland and forest. There is a lot of wildlife such as deer, raccoons, and birds nearby. Most people have to travel from one place to another using cars or trucks because it is often too far to walk.
