

Will

Use of will for future in following situations:

1. a spontaneous decision

- Wait, I will help you.

2. an opinion, hope, uncertainty or assumption regarding the future

- He will probably come back tomorrow.

3. a promise

- I will not watch TV tonight.

4. an action in the future that cannot be influenced

- It will rain tomorrow.

5. a threat

- I will kill you!
- I'll tell Mum!

6. a request, an offer

- "I'll look after the children for you if you like." (offers)
- "Will you tell Tony I called?" (requests)

"Will" and the negative form "will not" or "won't" is a modal auxiliary verb. This means that there is no -s on the third person singular, and that it is followed by the infinitive:

- I will leave later.
- You will leave later.
- He / she will leave later.
- We will leave later.
- They will leave later.

"Will" is often abbreviated to 'll' in spoken English:

- "I'll leave later."
- "He'll leave later."

To make the question form, change the word order:

- "You will leave later" = "Will you leave later?"
