

Prioritizing global issues

ACTIVITY 1.05

Look at this diamond nine grid which ranks some of the global issues that the world is currently facing. The most important one from this person's perspective is unemployment, which is at the top. Of equal importance underneath are population growth and disease. The issue this person thinks is the least important is at the bottom (crime).

Figure 1.03 Prioritising global issues

Do you agree with the priorities? Write the global issues according to YOUR priorities.

A blank diamond-shaped grid (diamond nine) for prioritizing global issues. The grid consists of 9 empty boxes arranged in a diamond shape: 1 box in the top row, 2 boxes in the second row, 3 boxes in the third row, 2 boxes in the fourth row, and 1 box in the bottom row.

Consider which of these you think will be the most important for you over the next 20 years. Will your priorities change?

A blank diamond-shaped grid (diamond nine) for prioritizing global issues. The grid consists of 9 empty boxes arranged in a diamond shape: 1 box in the top row, 2 boxes in the second row, 3 boxes in the third row, 2 boxes in the fourth row, and 1 box in the bottom row.