EATING OUT IN THE USA

The USA is the home of the fast food restaurant, but that isn't all there is. There are many interesting places to eat a meal or grab a snack, and some of them are even open 24 hours a day.

DINERS

You can't miss the classic American diner – it looks like a train carriage! Inside, customers sit at the counter or in a booth. Diners serve traditional American food like burgers and fries. They are also famous for their all-day breakfasts of fried eggs, waffles, pancakes and French toast, and their desserts like apple or cherry pie.

DELIS

Many Americans have lunch or dinner at a deli. They make delicious sandwiches and salads. There's a wide variety of sliced meats and cheeses to choose from. You can also get hot and cold drinks and baked goods like donuts and bagels.

STREET FOOD STANDS

For quick snacks, there is a great choice of street food. You can get a spicy chili dog from a traditional hot dog stand, or a pretzel from the stand on the corner. There are also many other stands with international snacks such as Mexican burritos, pizza, and kebabs.
