When I look back, I'm a bit embarrassed at how 1 _____ I was while at high school. I was really 2 _____ and I should have studied more. But I was young and 3 _____ of how much it would affect my future. I only realized later that it was 4 _____ behavior for someone who wants to succeed in life. Obviously, my grades weren't good enough to go to college. I tried to convince myself that the reason was because the subjects were 5 _____ for me. But it didn't take long to realize this was 6 _____. The truth was that I was simply 7 _____ to study hard enough. In the end, I got a job and paid for classes to improve my grades, because it seemed like the most 8 _____ thing to do. I managed to get into college and I concentrated even more on my studies. I'd like to think that I'm successful now, but it could have been a whole lot different.
