

Time Expressions with the Past Perfect

Example: John does his homework.... The class starts.

By the time the class started, John had done his homework.
The class started after John had done his homework.
John had done his homework before the class started.
John had already done his homework when the class started.
The class started at 6pm. By then John had done his homework.
I had just finished my homework when the bell rang.

Use a range of past tenses including (e.g. the past simple, the past continuous, the past perfect) to write short stories:-

John _____(hike) through the forest when he _____(see) a unicorn. He _____(call to) his friends but by the time they _____ (arrive) the unicorn_____(disappear). His friends _____(say) he was crazy.

Rachel _____(cook lunch) when the doorbell rang. Rachel_____(answer) the door and the postman _____(give) her a parcel. As the postman _____(drive) away Rachel _____ (remember) the food in the kitchen. She _____ (run) back inside but it was too late. The dog _____ (already / eat) it.

The hairdresser _____ (just /colour) my hair. She _____ (dry) it while I _____(read) a magazine. When I _____(look) in the mirror I was horrified. She _____(dye) my hair pink!

Rosa _____(walk) through Guadalajara when it _____ (start to rain). As she _____(wear) her new suit, she _____(decide to buy) an umbrella in Corte Ingles. It _____(be) December, so the queues _____(be) huge. Before Rosa _____(leave) the shop the rain _____ (stop).

As we _____(trek) through the jungle, we _____ (see) a tiger. Fortunately, it _____ (already/ eat).

Now invent your own story with the past simple, the past continuous and past perfect tenses.

LIVEWORKSHEETS