

Making Predictions

When you make a prediction, you tell what will probably happen next.

1. It was the best play Bobby had ever seen! The story was exciting. All of the actors were very good. When the play was over, Bobby jumped to his feet excitedly. What will Bobby do next?
 - a. clap and cheer
 - b. boo and hiss
 - c. race to the exit
 - d. go on stage himself

2. Maria looked out the tiny window next to her seat. She could hear the plane's engines warming up. She held on tight as the plane started rolling down the runway. What will happen next?
 - a. The plane will plane land.
 - b. Maria will get off the plane.
 - c. Maria will have a snack.
 - d. The plane will take off.

3. Sarah climbed the steps to get to the diving board. She stood on the edge of the board and looked at the pool below. She took a deep breath and got ready. What will Sarah do next?
 - a. Put on a swimsuit
 - b. Jump off the diving board
 - c. Compete in a swim race
 - d. Dry off with a towel

4. Tim had five candy bars for breakfast, three bags of chips for lunch, and two big pieces of cake for dessert. What do you think will happen next?
 - a. He will get a hug from his mother.
 - b. He will run outside and play ball.
 - c. His stomach will hurt.
 - d. His feet will hurt.

5. The sheep was shocked. Apparently, the farmer and his wife had been giving him all that good food just to fatten him up! But this was a clever sheep, and he immediately came up with a plan. First he ate all the food the farmer's wife had bought. Then he butted down the door to his pen.

What will the sheep do next?

- a. Then he ran away as fast as he could.
- b. Then he ate seconds and fell asleep.
- c. Then he announced that he was finished to the farmer's wife.
- d. Then he came up with another plan.