

Jackson State - Creative Writing

Imagine that you and your friends are sound wave particles being released from a music speaker inside a room. The door to the room is closed and you are headed directly for it. What happens next?

Write a creative story explaining how the sound wave particles (you and your friends) are separated based on what happens when you hit the door. Will you ever be back together?