- 1 A good title for this text is The Big Puma / Mama Quilla.
- 2 This is a story / an article in the newspaper.

A big puma lives in a mountain next to a small town. The people are scared, but Quilla, a beautiful young girl, isn't scared.

One evening the puma comes to the town. The people run home. They close all the doors and all the windows. But Quilla doesn't. She has an idea.

She runs to the mountain and the puma runs after her. She's happy: her people are not scared now. She runs and runs but the puma is ready to attack. He opens his big mouth. But, where is she? The puma sees a beautiful white ball. It's going up and up! It's going to the sky!

This is the story of Mama Quilla, the moon. She is the people's friend. She protects her small town and all the small towns in the world.

(Adapted from a Quechua myth)
