A journalist found out that you children are doing an interesting archaeological research. He wants to know what an archaeologist does, so he decided to schedule an interview in order to ask you more about your job.

Oh, no! there is a problem with the interview!

A tornado came and now both the questions by the journalist and the answers by the archaeologist are totally disordered. We need your help! Please, order them so the interview can make sense.

DO YOU LIKE YOUR JOB?

OH, YES. I LOVE IT.

THERE ARE ALMOST 30.

HOW MANY ARCHAEOLOGISTS ARE THERE IN YOUR TEAM?

ARCHAEOLOGISTS STUDY

MARY, COULD YOU TELL
WHAT DOES AN ARCHAEOLOGIST DO?

HI BOB!
MY NAME IS MARY AND
I'M AN ARCHAEOLOGIST.

OH, YES!
THAT IS TRUE.

YOU ARE WELCOME,
BOB. BYE BYE!

HI THERE!
MY NAME IS BOB AND
I'M A JOURNALIST.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH
FOR YOUR ATTENTION,
MARY. GOODBYE!

I KNOW THAT YOUR TEAM IS DOING AN INTERESTING RESEARCH.
IS THAT TRUE?

OF COURSE YOU CAN,
BOB.

MARY, CAN I MAKE YOU
ONE LAST QUESTION?

Order the conversation between Bob and Mary following the example below. There are some clues, so use your brain.
