

The purpose of this report is to provide an _____ of the shopping alternatives available in town _____ from shopping centers, street markets and designer shops to chain stores. As part of the _____, people from different economic backgrounds and age ranges were asked their views.

Teenagers _____ to prefer malls where they can get what they need and at the same time grab a bite or hang around. These also work for middle aged adults, who can combine shopping for clothes with going to the supermarket. As _____ senior citizens, designer shops in the old town seem to be the _____.

It was _____ that lower and middle class families choose second-hand shops because they display a wide variety, _____ accessible to them. As an alternative, they may resort to chain stores which also have reasonable prices. On the other hand, upper class people choose designer shops for their unique garments.

A new street market has recently opened downtown, and it really seems to be an interesting option for whole families. It _____ from handcrafted clothing for teenagers to thousands of baby garments _____ comfortable wear for older adults.

Age range

Recommendation for whole families

People's economic situation

ALTERNATIVES TO GO SHOPPING FOR CLOTHES