

Order the text below following the structure of a paragraph check the sentences to identify each of them. Drag and drop each of the parts where it belongs.

First, young drinkers develop a higher risk of dependency on alcohol since, according to recent data, their brains are not fully developed before 18 or 21 years old, so they cannot handle such kinds of substances.

Drinking alcohol at a young age can cause several problems, not only in the drinker's personal life but also in the whole society.

Lastly, drinking at a young age could cause a lack of interest in success in life or even depression, which can also lead to a lack of sense in life, irresponsibility, or even death.

In conclusion, drinking alcohol could cause several negative effects overall when the drinker starts to do it at a young age.

Second, young drinkers could develop diseases related to their health because they are going to spend more time drinking in their lives and because their young body is more vulnerable to suffer illnesses related to drinking.

Topic sentence

Supporting Sentence #1

Supporting Sentence #2

Supporting Sentence #3

Conclusion