

Listen to Jill and Kenny talk about summer events. Read the sentences. Check True or False. Click the play button to start.

True

False

They're going to have a party for John's graduation.

They're going to give Amy and Jeff a wedding present.

They're going to make special food for their parents' anniversary.

They're going to go to a party for Kenny's birthday.

Read the descriptions of the holidays. Choose the correct words or phrases to complete the sentences.

How are you going to celebrate . . . ?

New Year's Day is a holiday in most countries around the world. Most people celebrate it on January first. People in Argentina go to parties to celebrate. They also watch fireworks and eat special food.

Cinco de Mayo is a holiday in Mexico. It's on May fifth. People play music, go to dances, go to parades, and make special foods. Sometimes they wear special clothes. Some people in the United States celebrate Cinco de Mayo, too.

Mother's Day is celebrated in many countries around the world. In South Africa, people celebrate Mother's Day on the second Sunday in May. Children give gifts and flowers to their mothers. They help around the house and make special food. Mothers don't do anything on Mother's Day in South Africa!

Thanksgiving is a holiday in many countries. People in the United States celebrate Thanksgiving on the fourth Thursday in November. They eat special dinners with their families. They also watch football and go to parades.

1 Many people celebrate New Year's Day in

2 People in celebrate Mother's Day in .

3 People in the United States celebrate Thanksgiving in

.

4 People in Mexico and celebrate Cinco de Mayo.