

Rearrange the story.

They are able to get some jobs to do.

Later, the three friends see a purse falling out of a woman's shopping bag.

The woman rewards Lee with five pounds.

Lee is happy because he can join his friends to the fair.

Sam suggests that they do odd jobs for their parents and neighbours to earn some money.

Suddenly, Lee is torn between wanting to keep the money and doing the right thing.

Unfortunately, they are not able to do the jobs well and end up with no money at all.

When they open the purse, they see that it contains a lot of money.

When he tells his best friends, Sam and Raj, they are determined to help him so that he could go to the fair with them.

Lee wants to go to a fair but his mother tells him that she does not have enough money to give him.
