A    The biggest plot point, which puts our characters in a situation wherein a choice must be made that will affect the rest of the story

B    The first part of the plot establishes the main characters/protagonists and settings.

C    The primary conflict is introduced (if it hasn't been already) and is built upon to create tension both within the story and the reader.

D    We start to see the results of the climax and the main characters' actions and get a sense of what this means for them and the world they inhabit.

E    Final plot point is when everything has been wrapped up and the new world.
