Carolina writes an email to her friend about work:

"Hi Cristina, I am sorry I haven't _____ called you for so long. How are you? How is your new apartment? I have been very busy at work. I arrive at the office at 7 am and _____ at around 6:30 pm. I just _____ half an hour for lunch and a five-minute _____ in the morning and in the afternoon. I am very tired when I get home so I just _____, watch some television and go to bed. In the _____, I am on the phone all day, listening to customer _____ and entering them into our computer system. At the end of the day I have to write a summary of all the calls I received during the day and give my _____ a status on the complaints that are not yet resolved. I do not _____ how much longer I can do this. I need a vacation, or better, I need another job! I'll call you this weekend.

Carolina"
