Your Family blogger.co.uk

is the perfect website for people looking for more information about their families. I've visited this UK site every day since it started last month and have discovered family I didn't know about. It's been very easy to find the information and it's not expensive. Okay, I have been online for about five hours a day and have downloaded a lot of information but after my mum told me about my grandfather who went to the USA I knew I had to find out more. We already knew that my grandfather Joe married again when he went to the USA in 1962. We also knew that he had three sons, Ben, Tom and Alex, with Alana, his second wife. But, we didn't know that Ben, Tom and Alex got married and they all had three children – all of them boys! Ben, Tom and Alex and their families have always lived in the USA, and have never been to the UK or Europe.

I've always wanted to go to the USA but have never been there. I think it is a fascinating country and now I have a big family there, I really want to go. I've emailed my 'new' relatives and I've told them about myself and my family in the UK. We've chatted online a few times and it's been fun. They've invited me to visit them in the summer and I'm going for a month! I've bought a plane ticket and am very excited. My mum would also like to come with me to visit family she hasn't seen yet.

I've had a great time finding out more about my family and with Your Family blogger it was very easy. I've never used a website like this but now I've found it, I'm so happy! I've learnt a lot and now, I have to go ... I'm uploading some photos of us for our relatives in the USA!
