Substitutions

- Look at the language focus box. Then use the words below to make substitutions for the underlined phrases in the review so that it reads more naturally.

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| a lot | doesn't | it | one | |
| others | this | to do so | a trip | - |

Some people go out of their way to make travel convenient and comfortable. Dervla Murphy [1] doesn't go out of her way. Since she began writing, Murphy has shown a passion for travelling in an eccentric way. Luckily for us, she is also keen to share [2] her passion for travelling with us in her writing. Her first book, Full Tilt, describes her journey from Ireland to India with a bicycle. This was [3] a journey which she had been planning since she was ten years old. Where [4] other travellers might not have attracted so much attention, Murphy, being a lone woman travelling on a bicycle, attracted [5] a lot of attention. She took a revolver for protection and had to use [6] the revolver twice: once to scare off wolves in Bulgaria and once [7] to scare off people in Persia. To tell a story in an interesting way is one thing, but [8] to tell a story in such a humorous and good-natured way is another. As an example of good travel writing, I can't think of a better [9] example.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____
7. _____
8. _____
9. _____

LIVEWORKSHEETS