Hi, Amy,

Greetings from Jaipur! It's hot and sunny here and we're having a wonderful time! We're staying in my aunt and uncle's house.

It's Holi here in India now – the festival of colours. People celebrate it every spring. They light bonfires, dance and sing around them. They also throw coloured powder at each other.

In Kolomna there is also a kind of Holi festival every summer, but the real Indian Holi is really great!!!

At the moment we're watching a parade of painted elephants. (You'll see the video on my YouTube channel later.)

People are dancing in the streets. I'm taking lots of fantastic photos for my blog too. I'll upload them later this evening. Don't forget to put likes to my photos and videos.

See you next week,

Sophie.
