'GoldenEye' Movie Summary

In 1986, Bond is on a mission to destroy a Russian weapons facility with his chum and _____ agent Alec Trevelyan, 006. The mission goes south, and Alec is shot by the Russians while Bond escapes, completing the mission. Nine years later, a _____ helicopter is stolen from Monte Carlo and used to destroy a Russian weapons station by a satellite with a massive electromagnetic pulse _____, called GoldenEye. There is one survivor, and Bond _____ to find her. The survivor is a programmer, Natalia Simonova.

Bond meets with former KGB agent, Zukofsky, who gives Bond a _____ to Janus, the head of the crime _____ suspected of stealing the helicopter. An _____, Onatopp, tries to kill Bond in his hotel room, but he _____ her and makes her take him to Janus. Janus is actually Alec with a _____ face from being shot and burned back in 1986. Janice is descended from Cossacks, who were _____ by the Brits after fighting against the Nazis in World War 2.

Alec tries to kill Bond and Natalia together in the helicopter, but they escape and report the whole mess to the authorities. But Alec's people kill the authorities, and after a tank chase and a train fight, Bond learns there's a second GoldenEye satellite and that Alec controls it from somewhere in Cuba.

Bond and Natalia find Alec's _____ in Cuba and infiltrate it. Bond is captured. Alec _____. He plans to rob the bank of England then hit it with the GoldenEye, destroying the British _____. Natalia changes the codes before they can _____ their plan, and Bond tries to escape. Alec chases him down only to be dropped from a massive satellite dish and then to have a massive satellite dish dropped on him as the GoldenEye burns _____ in the atmosphere.
