

Dear Jasmine,

Hope you are fine. As for me...Well! I would like to narrate a frightening experience I went through last week.

That Saturday morning, the weather was good. It was sunny and bright. We wanted to have a fun time since the weather was great. We shared the expenses and also booked a budget chalet overlooking the sea. The beach town looked more like a 'bazaar' with stalls everywhere. All kinds of food and other things were sold there.

In the afternoon, we changed into our swimming wear and swam happily. Everyone stopped their beach activities and ran to their accommodation. My friends and I did the same. Then it started raining heavily. The sea waves began to become fiercer and wilder. We could see them from our chalets. We were warned not to go out.

All of a sudden, the whole chalet was in total darkness. We had no torchlights or even candles with us. We used the light from our handphones and sat together closely. I called my uncle. He came by van and sent us all home. It was 8.00 p.m. when we reached home. The weather in Malaysia is really unpredictable.

A	There was a short circuit, and the electricity supply was disconnected.
B	We built sandcastles and collected seashells on the beach.
C	Loud thunders and flashing lightning could be seen and heard.
D	We sat in one of the stalls and had hot drinks.
E	After two hours, everything was normal again.
F	Two friends of mine and I decided to go to the beach.
G	We did not swim immediately and decided to look around.
H	Then suddenly from a bright day, the clouds began to set dark.
