

Drag the numbers (1 to 9) and put the story in the correct sequence.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| A few years ago Manchester United played the Spanish team Deportivo de La Coruña in the Champions League.                  | They weren't in Spain. They were in Santiago, the capital of Chile!  | They walked out of the airport and stopped a taxi.                                            |
| It wasn't possible to fly to La Coruña direct, so they needed to fly to Santiago de Compostela, and then to get a taxi.  | They booked tickets to Santiago on the Internet.                   | They checked in at Heathrow Airport at 9.00 p.m. because the flight was at 11.00 at night.  |
| Two Manchester United fans wanted to travel to Spain to see the match.                                                   | When the plane landed they were very surprised! It was morning!    | They asked the taxi driver, 'Where's the match?' The taxi driver answered 'What match?'     |