Changing – for the better?

Family life is changing in the UK – but not in the way we might think. When the BBC did a survey of families in Britain, they expected to find that family relationships were suffering because of the decline in traditional family structures.

However, some of the results were quite surprising...

of men

and

39%
of women

aged 20–24 still live at home with their parents.

1

think that it is right for parents to charge rent to children over 25 who have a job and are living at home.

30%

use the internet at least once a week to contact their families.

On average,
adults live

130

kilometres from their parents.

95%
of people

say that they have a close family.

2
of people

have a meal with their immediate family every day.

3
of people

say that their families never argue.

of people

have family members who they don't speak to any more.

of people

think that families should look after grandparents.

75%
of people

are happiest with their families.

17%
of people

are happiest with friends.

ANSWER

1 (15) Listen and check. Do any of the statistics surprise you? Which ones do you think would be very different if the survey was carried out in your country?
