

3 Writing A description of a person

A. John has written about his new flatmate, Freddie. Read the description and tick the topics he has mentioned.

1. The qualities he doesn't like about Freddie.
2. How he feels about Freddie.
3. What other people think of Freddie.

4. The qualities he likes about Freddie.

5. The things he does that annoy Freddie.

6. How they know each other.

7. People they both know.

Freddie is my new flatmate at university. I've only known him for a couple of weeks, but so far, we get along fine.

Freddie is very easy-going and has got a great sense of humour so he manages to cheer me up when I'm down or stressed. In addition, he's pretty outgoing and confident and loves meeting new people. So, of course, we know almost everyone on campus already.

Unlike me, however, he isn't very active and doesn't like sports.

That's a little annoying because I enjoy watching and playing sports while he just likes getting together with other students and watching DVDs. Something else I've noticed is that he's kind of quick-tempered. Not with me, but with other people. They seem to get on his nerves for no reason.

I don't know if Freddie and I are going to become best friends. However, he is definitely a good person to know, especially when you're starting off at university.
