Madonna is supporting her friend and collaborator Britney Spears.

On Thursday, the "Papa Don't Preach" singer — who worked with Britney on the 2003 track "Me Against the Music" — spoke out in defense of Britney on her Instagram Story Thursday, amid the ongoing court developments concerning Britney's conservatorship. "Give this woman her life back," Madonna, 62, wrote over a photo of herself wearing a Britney t-shirt. "Slavery was abolished long ago! Death to the greedy patriarchy that has been doing this to women for centuries." She continued, "This is a violation of human rights! Britney, we coming to get you out of jail!"

Black Widow is about to take her first solo steps on the MCU, in a context that is at least special... In fact, we recall that in Avengers: Game Over, Natasha Romanoff is dead, which tends to obscure her future within the Marvel Cinematic Universe. So, unless you make more prequels about her, how can Scarlett Johansson still be part of the MCU after the Black Widow? "Marvel, these are always new beginnings and Scarlett Johansson is an amazing partner. She's the producer of Black Widow. a chance in the future," Marvel Studios President Kevin Feige said in an interview with ET. We understand between the lines that if her collaboration continues with the franchise, she will be in a new role, off camera, more as a producer than a star. Font: PremiereMagazine july,21
