Tee Scene Magazine was down at Castle Gallery last week. Not very cool, I hear you say. Just how grown can you be? For the next month, you'll be able to find the coolest work by under-18s in Britain. 1. _____ We'd be specially recommended come works of art by the following artists.

Stuart Longden, 15, from Cornwall, has a definite genius. He's a portrait painter with a difference. Behind the people he paints, he lets his graffiti talent show. So, for example, there's one painting of an old man sitting on a chair, a very realistic-looking old man too, and behind him there is an explosion of graffiti. It really makes an impression! Stuart has five of his works at the gallery, all of which show normal people in everyday situations with a graffiti background. 2. _____ All of Stuart's paintings sell for under £100.

Emma Sanderson, 17, from Surrey is an interesting artist too. Emma is a sculptor and her pieces will knock you out. I managed to find Emma at the gallery, and she explained her work to me. 3. _____ I can tell you she certainly does that. Her father is an architect and she said she loved the way he designed large buildings.

In fact, all of her sculptures are of buildings. My favourite piece is a big piece of black stone (about two metres high) which I thought was a boat, but Emma tells me it's a block of flats. I'm afraid these pieces are more expensive, starting at £500.

Hugo Lagrange, 17, from London really knows how to draw. 4. _____ Hugo is a cartoonist, but his work is so detailed and lively that not surprisingly, people want to buy his original pictures to hang on their walls, if you want to have the coolest picture, check out his drawings of animals. The great thing is you can buy one with a frame for about £50.

Another artist whose work caught our eye was Gena Downey, 16, who creates charming miniature watercolour landscapes and still life paintings. Gena, who grew up in a small village in central Europe, said she was inspired by the everyday beauty of ordinary objects she saw around her. 5. _____ One of my favourites is a colourful still life of freshly Picked fruits and vegetables in an old straw basket set under a tree. Gena's paintings start at £100 unframed, but 50% of the price is donated to charity.
