

World Environment Day

June 5 is celebrated as world environment day. It was declared in 1972 by U.N General it leads to the creation of the United Nations environment program. It was first celebrated in 1974 in Spokane U.S.A. It was started to spread the awareness of environmental protection. It is celebrated in more than 100+ countries. What is the environment?, environment is everything around us, living and non-living things both come under the environment. How did the environment got in danger ?, because of human being's pollution the globe is getting warm and Antarctica's frozen water is getting melt because of it the sea level is Rising and because of it the city near the sea will sink. Pollution also is destroying ozone layers if these layers got destroyed human beings and the animal will burn to their death. But we can save with the help of planting trees and take care of the nearby trees

By – Aarav M Agarwal

