My gardening blog

Hello! I'm Poppy from the UK. A poppy is a red flower too. Look! Aren't they beautiful?

I do gardening on Saturday with my dad. We've got a small vegetable garden at home. In winter, we usually grow cauliflower and celery. In summer, we grow tomatoes and peas. It's hot in July and August. I water the vegetables three times a week.

Once a week, I go to a gardening club. In summer, we always grow sunflowers. We usually plant the seeds in April. The plants grow fast and have big, brown and yellow flowers in August. Here's a photo of my sunflower. It's two metres tall!

At gardening club, we sometimes learn about animals and insects. Do you know that gardeners like worms? Worms make small tunnels in the earth. Air and water go through the tunnels to the roots of plants.

In the holidays, I like visiting gardens too. Here are two famous gardens in the UK. This is a vertical garden in Manchester. It's a garden on a wall. The gardeners water the plants twice a week.

And this is a photo of a giant's head at Heligan garden. I think it's cool!
