The main advantage of streaming video services is that you can take your favourite shows and movies anywhere, you just need a phone/tablet and internet connection, and you are good to go.....Furthermore, if you are learning a language, you can easily find movies in its original version and you decide whether you want to add subtitles or not.

Everyone knows about streaming platforms, Netflix, Amazon Prime, Hulu, HBO and the list goes on. It is true that they offer their audiences numerous advantages, but maybe they are not for everyone, and before you sign up for one of them....

In conclusion, streaming video platforms are great, and they are the present and future of TV entertainment.....

However, not everything is positive about these platforms; there are also some disadvantages that we should consider. An important disadvantage is that if you go somewhere with poor internet connection, or with no internet connection, then you have to go straight to bed or read a book, because you are not going to watch your series. In addition, it is true that you can almost watch anything but there are important limitations. Not everything you want to watch is there.....

Streaming video platforms, a good idea?

() but people who want to use one of these platforms should know that not everything is positive about these services.

() for instance, if you love old movies, you will probably not find what you are looking for, and if you have Netflix forget about watching Games of Thrones.

() you should also consider their disadvantages.

() Another advantage is the great availability, you have access to almost any show or film that you can think of and you do not have to wait one week to see another episode of your favorite series.
