I. Read paragraph 1 and write True or False next to the sentences.

It's lunch time at the Ravenscourt Theatre School in London. In the corridor some students are singing. The Ravenscourt Theatre School is for boys and girls, 6 to 16 year olds, who want to work in film, theatre or music. The school is a private school. This means that the students pay to go to there. The students have to work very hard. They study normal school subjects: English, Maths, Science, Art, History, Geography, French and IT. And they also study three performing arts subjects: drama, dance and singing. Some of the students appear in films and West End London theatres while they are at stage school. It's hard work but they enjoy it.
