Thousands of years ago people painted on cave walls. The paintings were usually of animals and hunters. The paintings are in red, brown, black, yellow and other natural colours. The hunters were usually stick figures, but the animals were amazing. Many of these paintings are deep in the caves and the artists spent hours working on these pictures. Sometimes they made a handprint next to the painting but we don't know why.
There are some famous paintings in Lascaux, France. Some children discovered these paintings in 1940 and now many people go there to look at the amazing art. There are famous cave paintings in Africa, North America, Europe, Asia and Australia.
