

Giving instructions in an emergency.

When there is a crisis, it is important to calm people down and give instructions on what to do next. That way, everyone will be safe. Can you choose the correct option to complete the dialogue?

Alice: It's still raining and the water is getting nearer the house, Mum!

Mum: Don't worry / talk; we'll be OK.

Alice: But I feel scared, Mum. My hands are / heart is pounding.

Mum: There's no need to be scared. Just take it easy / I'm so nervous.
Listen to me and do what I say. OK?

Alice: OK.

Mum: First, close / open all the windows and doors.

Alice: OK. Should we stay inside / go outside?

Mum: Yes. We'll be safer inside the house. We need to fill bottles with clean drinking water. They are in the kitchen cupboard.

Alice: I've found them.

Mum: Great. We need to buy supplies / bring the valuable items upstairs. Get Grandma's painting. I'll get our phones, the computer and some food.

Alice: Will we be OK?

Mum: Yes. We've got food and water. We'll wait upstairs until the emergency services arrive. Everything will be fine / terrible.
