Koalas live in one country in the world – Australia. All koalas are grey. A lot of people call them koala bears, but they're not bears. They're marsupials – these are animals that have a pouch to carry their babies in, like kangaroos and wallabies. Koala mothers carry their babies in their pouch until they're about six months old. Koalas eat eucalyptus leaves. They don't like leaves from other types of trees. They get food and liquid from the eucalyptus leaves, so they don't drink a lot of water. Koalas like to sleep. They sleep for 18–20 hours a day!
