The Second Conditional

We use the second conditional to talk about unreal situations and to imagine the results. The situation clause begins with if and has a past verb, not because the action is in the past, but because it is unreal. We can use was or were with I, he, she and it. The result clause has could/would + base verb. The two clauses can be used in any order.

Unreal Situation	Imaginary Result
If I (1)..... a thousand dollars,	(2)..... buy myself a huge TV.
If you (3)..... it all to charity,	you (4)..... have any left.
(5)..... you had a thousand dollars,	what (6)..... you do?

3. Match the sentence halves.

- 1 If I saw an elderly man carrying groceries,
- 2 I would listen to my friend
- 3 If he ate all that chocolate,
- 4 She would make a lot of friends
- 5 They would make their community better

- ☐ he would feel sick!
- ☐ if they picked up their litter.
- ☐ if she spoke to more people.
- ☐ I would help him carry them.
- ☐ if she wanted to tell me her problems.
