My friend recently learnt how to do an amazing water sport I had never heard of before. It is called scuba diving and allows you to swim deep in the ocean and explore parts many people never get to see. I have become so fascinated with it that I am already planning a trip to the Maldives to learn how to do it.

It is a very technical sport and you need to be certified to do it. This involves 3 days of intense training regarding the equipment and procedures involved. You then get to be submerged in the depths of the ocean with a qualified trainer who guides you. I think it is very difficult to learn all this information but would be so worth it in the end.

I have not had the opportunity to try it yet, as I do not want to do it alone. You are also never allowed to dive alone, as this is for your own safety. If I could convince my friend to join me, I may travel to the Maldives sooner than I had planned. I think it would be an unforgettable experience to see the creatures in the depths. It is also an amazing skill, and a great activity to add to future travels.
