READ ME!

There are 2 types of pages in this Vocabulary Notebook. On the puzzle piece pages, you will complete a word study of each vocabulary term. On the paragraph pages, you will show that you understand the vocabulary word by using it in your writing.

It is your job to finish one word study and one paragraph every weekday. Usually, we will do this in class. On days you are not in class, you must complete the tasks on your own. The puzzle piece pages are worth 40 points of your course grade. The paragraph pages let you earn up to 20 points.

Puzzle Piece Pages

Fill in the information in each column:

Word	Meaning	Native Language	Cognate?	Connota-tion	Syllables	Part of Speech
1.Click on the word to hear how it is pronounced. 2. Click on the red dot and record yourself saying the word. 3) Select the number of the picture that shows the word.	Write the definition that I give you in class, OR Write the definition given to you in the game at the top of the page. Click on the link to go to the game.	Translate the word into your native language. That is the first language you learned when you were a baby.	Does the word in your language sound a lot like the English word? If it does, it is a cognate. Write "yes." If not, write, "no."	Every word reminds us of other ideas and feelings. Are most of your associations with this word positive (+) or negative (-)? Pick one.	Some sounds in a word go together in chunks. How many chunks of sound do you hear in this word?	The words will be mainly nouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs. For example, nouns are names of people and things. What type of word is this?

Paragraph Pages

1) Complete the prompt sentence.

2) Copy the completed prompt sentence into the large space under it. This is your topic sentence.

3) Write 3 more sentences. These are supporting details. They may be examples, reasons, or another kind of information.

It is my responsibility to complete one _____ study and one _____ every day.

I must use the definitions given in _____ or in the _____ that is linked to the page.