I have two best friends who are twins. They are Giang and Son. They are very similar in appearances. They have almost identical features, such as eyes, face, height, and hair. I often find it difficult to differentiate them. After some time, I can see their differences pretty easily now.

The first difference between Giang and Son is their personalities. Giang is a good-humored and sociable person. He always tells funny stories to his friends. They will smile and even laugh loudly every time Giang tells a joke. He also likes to help everyone around him. On the contrary, Son is a quiet and stiff person. He rarely talks to others. It is not easy to make a joke with him since he is formal and unrelaxed. Son does not have as many friends as Giang.

Secondly, Giang and Son have different dreams. Giang doesn't want to continue his study in university. He wants to be an artist. He enjoys painting and travelling and he hopes to have his own painting gallery someday. On the other hand, Son is more ambitious than Giang. He wants to become a good engineer. So, he always fights to be the best. He studies hard and seriously.

The last thing that sets Giang and Son apart is their hobbies. Giang likes wearing T-shirts and jeans with sport shoes and watching comedy films. Otherwise, Son likes wearing shirts and western style pants with leather shoes. That is why he looks older than his age. He also likes watching documentaries and listening to romantic music.

Last year, my parents were so busy that they were never home. To make up for the missing time, our family decided to go on a short trip to the Universal Studios in Orlando, Florida last summer. It was our very first time going abroad.

As I have never flown before, I was so nervous. All the anticipation inside me made it feel like forever while we sat in the aircraft waiting to take off. When it finally left the ground, I was overjoyed. The flight was hours long, but I enjoyed every minute of it.

When we got off the plane, we rented a car and drove to our accommodation. It was a small yet cozy bed and breakfast. We were all starving so we went out for dinner. We stopped by a nearby Italian restaurant and had some delicious meals there. No wonder it was packed like sardines.

In the morning, we left for the Universal Studios, the world's largest movie studio and theme park. We went on a lot of great rides. The Simpsons and Jaws were amazing. We also watched several shows. We especially liked the Beetlejuice show. The rides were so much fun and the shows were awesome.

There just was not any dull moment in that whole trip. It was really unforgettable. I treasure it the most because it got us closer as a family as we got to spend time together and made good memories.
