

'I've found where she lives,' said the detective.....' Here is the .....

Hartley took the piece of paper. On it were the.....'Vivienne Arlington No 341 East 49th Street.'

'She moved there.....', said the detective.

'I will .....her if you want. It will only cost you $7 a day and .....

'No, thank you,' interrupted Hartley. 'I only wanted .....How much is it?'

'One day's work,' said the detective. '.....dollars.'

Hartley paid the man. Then he left the office and took a .....to .....After walking a short distance he .....at the building that he was looking for. Hartley rang the bell. The door opened. He came in and began to .....

On the fourth floor he saw her standing in an open door. Vivienne was about .....Her hair was .....and her eyes were .....She was wearing a .....and a .....

'Vivienne,' said Hartley, 'you didn't answer my last letter. It took me .....to find your .....! Why didn't you answer me? You knew I was waiting to see you and to .....from you.'

