The next day, Sylvia ate spinach with her eggs. She ate spinach in her soup. She ate spinach on her sandwich.

Sylvia tried to trade for Penelope's peas. "No way," said Penelope, rolling the little green balls in her hand.

There were only three vegetables ready to eat in the garden: lettuce, radishes, and Sylvia's spinach.

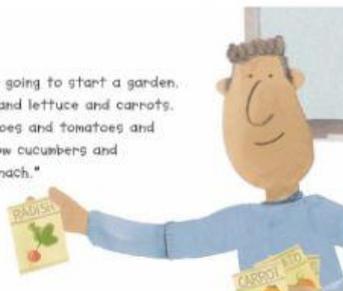

No spinach on my sandwich!
 "No spinach! Ever!"

Finally Sylvia opened her mouth and bit that spinach leaf in half.
 Crunch!

"Class, we are going to start a garden. We'll grow peas and lettuce and carrots. We'll grow potatoes and tomatoes and squash. We'll grow cucumbers and radishes and spinach."

As the other students picked a little of this and a little of that to take home to their families,
