3 Read about the Millennium Development goals. Complete the sentences using the future perfect tense.

2015 saw the deadline for the Millennium Development goals. These goals were set in 2000 and were to be achieved by 2015. However, not all of them were achieved. Now, a new set of goals has been written setting out sustainable development goals. These state how we hope we will have transformed our world by 2030. The goals are a very ambitious 'to do' list. They include the following:

- No one will be living in poverty.
- Everyone will have access to clean water.
- All life on land, and in our seas and rivers will be protected.
- Men and women will be equal.
- No one will be hungry.
- Take action to reduce the effects of climate change.
