Ross: What's on TV tonight, do you know?

Monica: No. Why don't you look in the paper you're reading?

Ross: _____ paper doesn't have TV listings.

Monica: Oh, right. Well try ____ one on the table, over there.

Ross: OK yes, let's see. There's nothing much on _____ days at all. It's all soaps and solving mysteries.

Monica: Yes, not much of an adventurous documentary _____ days. I watched _____ one interesting documentary on street food last week.

Ross: Yes, I remembered ____ one. Interesting culture! _____ foods shown were really mouth-watering.

Monica: Speaking of which, why don't you try ___ latest menu? I created _____ for appetizers as _____ boss kept on asking for a new menu. I was inspired by the documentary and quickly made _____ appetizers.

Ross: Why not? Wow! _____ is amazing, Mon. Have you asked Joey and Chandler to taste _____?

Monica: Yes, they will come over. They are enjoying _____ favourite show.

Ross: _____ boss will definitely love it.

Monica: Are you sure? He's quite fussy when it comes to a new menu for _____ restaurant.

Ross: Where are Joey and Chandler? I hope I will leave some for them. I am afraid I'll finish all of _____.

Monica: I better call them right away!
