

Book: Alice's Adventures in Wonderland by Lewis CarrollChapter 5: Alice goes to a tea party

The March Hare and the Hatter were sitting at a _____ table under a tree in front of the house. They were having _____. _____ was sitting between them. He was asleep.

There were _____ empty places at the table but when the Hatter and the Hare saw Alice, they shouted, 'No room! No room!'

'There's lots of room,' Alice said, and she chose an armchair at the top of the table.

'Have some _____!' the March Hare said.

'I can't see any _____ on the table,' Alice replied.

'There isn't any,' the Hare said.

'Well, it's _____ of you to offer me some,' Alice said, a little angrily.

'It's rude of you to sit down without being invited,' the Hare answered.

'I didn't know it was your table. There are lots of empty places,' Alice said.

The Hatter poured some tea _____.

'Wake up, Dormouse!'

It opened its eyes _____.

'I wasn't asleep,' it said.

'Tell us a _____!' the Hatter and the Hare shouted together.

'Yes, please do!' Alice said.

'And be quick! Don't fall asleep again!' the Hatter said.

The Dormouse began. 'Once upon a time there were three little sisters. Their names were Elsie, Lacie and Tillie. They lived at the bottom of _____. The three little sisters were learning to _____.'

'What were they learning to draw?' Alice asked.

'They were learning to draw – 'the Dormouse yawned sleepily. 'Everything beginning with the letter _____.'
