WERE YOU BORN IN THE U.S.?

Listen to each conversation. Type in the missing past tense verbs.

Hannah	Maria	Leo
Man: _____ you _____ in the U.S., Hannah? Hannah: Well, I _____ up here, but I was born in Seoul, South Korea. My family _____ to Chicago when I was very young. Man: What did your parents do in South Korea? Hannah: They were both doctors. They're _____ now. Man: When did you move to Chicago? Hannah: Well, we _____ here about 20 years ago. We first _____ with my grandparents. They were both teachers. Man: Did you go to college here, too? Hannah: Yes, I did. I was an English major at the University of Chicago.	Man: Were you born here in New Mexico, Maria? Maria: Yes, I was. I _____ _____ right here in this town. My brothers, my sister and I were all born here in the U.S., and we _____ up here in Santa Fe. Man: What about your parents? Maria: They're from Mexico originally, but they _____ here a long time ago. Man: What did your parents do in Mexico? Maria: Well, my dad was a singer in a band. My mom _____ with them sometimes. Man: Did you and your brothers and sister all go to college? Maria: Well, my brothers are still in high school, but my sister and I _____ college. Man: What was your major? Maria: My major was drama, but I'm working as a dance teacher.	Man: So, Leo, where are you from? Leo: I'm originally from Rio, Brazil – I was born there – but I _____ to the U.S. about three years ago. My parents _____, too. Man: So you _____ up in Rio? Leo: That's right. I came here for college. Man: What are you studying? Leo: Math. Man: What _____ your parents _____ in Brazil? Leo: Well, my father was a math professor, but he's _____ now. My mom is still teaching math at my university here.

LIVEWORKSHEETS