The Princess on the Pea

By: Hans Christian Andersen (1835)

Once upon a time there was a prince who wanted to marry a real princess. He searched all over the world but did not find anyone. Because of that, the prince was so sad and decided to go back home. One evening, it rained so hard with thunder and lightning. Suddenly, a knock from the door was heard and immediately the prince went to open it. He saw a lady standing in front of the gate wearing clothes that was all wet because of the heavy rain. The lady insisted that she was a real princess despite of her look. The prince was not convinced at all. The prince went to the bedroom and took all the beddings and laid a pea on the bottom. He put back the beddings and let the "princess" slept on it. The morning came, she was asked how she had slept. "I slept very badly", responded the princess. "I could not even close my eyes because I'm lying on something hard that I do not even know what it was", she added. Because of that, the prince concluded that she was a real princess because she felt the pea. So, the prince married the princess as he now found a real princess. The pea was put in the museum and the prince together with his princess live happily ever after.
