

Read the email again and choose the best option (A-J) to complete the phrases. Then match the options to the language points.

Hi Melvin,

It's good to hear from you. Congratulations A) on your new job! B) What are your new colleagues like?

I'm writing to tell you that I'm coming to Chicago again and C) I'd like to have coffee with you if you're D) interested in meeting up.

I'll be in town on Thursday next week. We could go to that café E) we went to last summer. Or maybe you have a new favorite place? Let me know what you decide. F) I promise to be on time!

Anyway, I have to go now. G) I've just finished cleaning the house, and I'm going to cook dinner. Did I tell you that I've H) given up eating meat? I) I haven't had any meat for six weeks now. J) Vegetarian food tastes great.

Best wishes,

David

1. adding a time reference to a present perfect form ____
2. adjective + preposition ____
3. functional language for talking about a recent/future positive event in someone's life ____
4. state verb ____
5. talking about a recently completed action ____
6. using like to ask for a description ____
7. using like to say what you want to do ____
8. using past simple with a time reference ____
9. verb + infinitive ____
10. verb + verb with -ing ____